National Theatre

The National Theatre is for everyone.

A place that inspires, moves, thrills and delights audiences in London, across the UK and internationally.

Including a gift in your Will, no matter how large or small, will cost you nothing now, but has the power to ignite the creativity of the next generation and share the joy of theatre with young people and communities throughout the nation, for years to come.

The Royal National Theatre is a registered charity no.224223. Registered Office: Upper Ground, London SE1 9PX

Gifts in Wills allow the National Theatre to deliver ground-breaking creative work and educational programmes that fulfil our mission to share the best of British theatre with the widest possible audience.

What your gift will support

Any gift we receive, no matter the size, makes a vital contribution to our ongoing work.

Unrestricted gifts, of all sizes, are essential as they enable the National to use your donation wherever the need is greatest. Whilst you are welcome to leave a gift for a specific area of our work, we encourage you to include the words 'general purposes' to allow the National Theatre to adapt should a project no longer be running.

How to include a gift to the National Theatre

The Royal National Theatre is a registered charity (no. 224223), which means that your legacy gift will be exempt from Inheritance Tax.

If you decide to leave at least 10% of your estate to charity, the Inheritance Tax rate on the rest of your estate may reduce from 40% to 36%. We recommend that you seek advice from your financial or legal adviser.

Should you decide to make a gift to the National, you can choose to leave either a share of the residue of your estate (a residuary bequest) or a fixed amount (a pecuniary bequest).
